

What is a Patient-Centered Medical Home (PCMH)?

The Patient-Centered Medical Home is a new and advanced way of providing primary care services. The goal is improved care for you, the patient. It builds on the personal relationship that you already have with your trusted provider and includes the following:

- A Team Approach - An expanded team of people will focus on your individual health care needs and your choices about how care is delivered. Physicians, Nurse Practitioners, nurses, Social Workers, Medical Assistants, and Receptionists will work together to make sure that you get the right care at the right time.
- Improved Access - Same and next day appointments, telephone care, evening office hours, and after-hours phone access makes it easier for you to get what you need.
- Electronic Health Records – This secure technology gives your team reminders about needed care and helps monitor changes in your health over time. It has the ability to make sure that all health professionals caring for you have access to current and accurate information about your health history.
- Network of Support Services - Extensive educational resources and self-management support will assist you in setting and achieving your health care goals.
- Coordination of Care - Your providers will work closely with trusted specialists and hospitals to direct your care to make sure that your entire health care team is working together to achieve your best health.
- Continuous Improvement - Your health care team will put into practice ongoing quality improvement plans to better the care and experience that you and your family receives.
